

"So bloody tasty"

2014 JOSHUA GRENACHE MATARO SHIRAZ

"For my tastes, these are some of the best wines coming out of the Barossa. This wine, yes, though not specifically this wine, I'm talking about blends from older vineyards that see old (or no) oak, aren't stuffed around with too much in the winery, and most importantly, are great to drink. So here's Joshua, a blend of Grenache, Mataro and Shiraz.

Summer berry pudding, spice, flowers, chocolate and a little of that Barossa earth/coal providing the bass, as it were. Medium to full bodied, juicy burst of mixed berries (mainly red), fine dusting of chalky tannin, balanced acidity and a juicy fresh and cocoa laced finish. They pretty much nail this wine year after year. So bloody tasty."

94 POINTS

GARY WALSH, THE WINE FRONT
NOVEMBER 2014

TRUE & RIGHTEOUS PLEASURE